How do we look & feel?

FIDATO HOTELS

Looks aren’t everything, but our appearance speaks volumes.

While there’s much more to how people perceive us than just our logo, fonts, colors, and images, it’s hard to ask them to look deeper if the surface isn’t clear. First impressions matter, and the way we present ourselves visually plays a key role in shaping how we're understood.

Our appearance is as important as what we communicate. By thoughtfully using our visual design system as intended, we make it easier for everyone to recognize and connect with us more clearly.

We maintain a consistent brand presence everywhere.

Whether it's animations, videos, presentations, ads, or any other medium, our brand’s visual design system is flexible enough to fit any platform where we need to share our story. And we’ve created clear guidelines to help you implement it effectively.

Ultimately, it all boils down to one thing: the same client might encounter our design on a screen at a conference, on their mobile later that day, in a presentation the next day, and in an ad shortly after. We apply the same design principles across all these touchpoints, ensuring there’s no doubt—it’s always Fidato.

Take it easy, champ.

You’re a go-getter with a vision for how things should look—a 3D logo, a stunning location in the foreground, a beautiful property façade in the background, lens-flare effects everywhere, and neon green headlines. We get it, and we bet Atlee might love it for his next film. But that’s not our style.

That said, we understand you have specific needs and want to tell your story in a way that resonates. Our design system is structured to provide consistency and clarity, while also being flexible enough to support strong, unique designs that still align with our brand.

Introducing our brand

We have one logo

This is not a gimmick—there is only one logo. Across the entire company, we use the Fidato logo, and that's it. While there are different versions for various uses, we don't create alternate logos—no special ones for specific products, services, technologies, or programs. You get the idea.

To maintain optimal legibility and impact, keep a clear space of at least one 'O' from 'Fidato' on all sides and an 'H' gap from 'Hotel' between the icon and text. 'Hotels' in our logo is set in Malgun Gothic font. The only exception is online, where spacing may be slightly reduced, but clarity should always come first.

We have two font combinations in use.

These font duos are essential, each serving a distinct purpose:
ITC Charter and Helvetica Neue are best used in professional design software. (If you don’t typically use such tools, your font choices just got easier.)

Georgia and Arial will be your go-to duo. Use Georgia for titles and headlines, while Arial is ideal for sub-headers and body text.

Primary

Georgia

Secondary

Arial

MS Office® application fonts

Primary

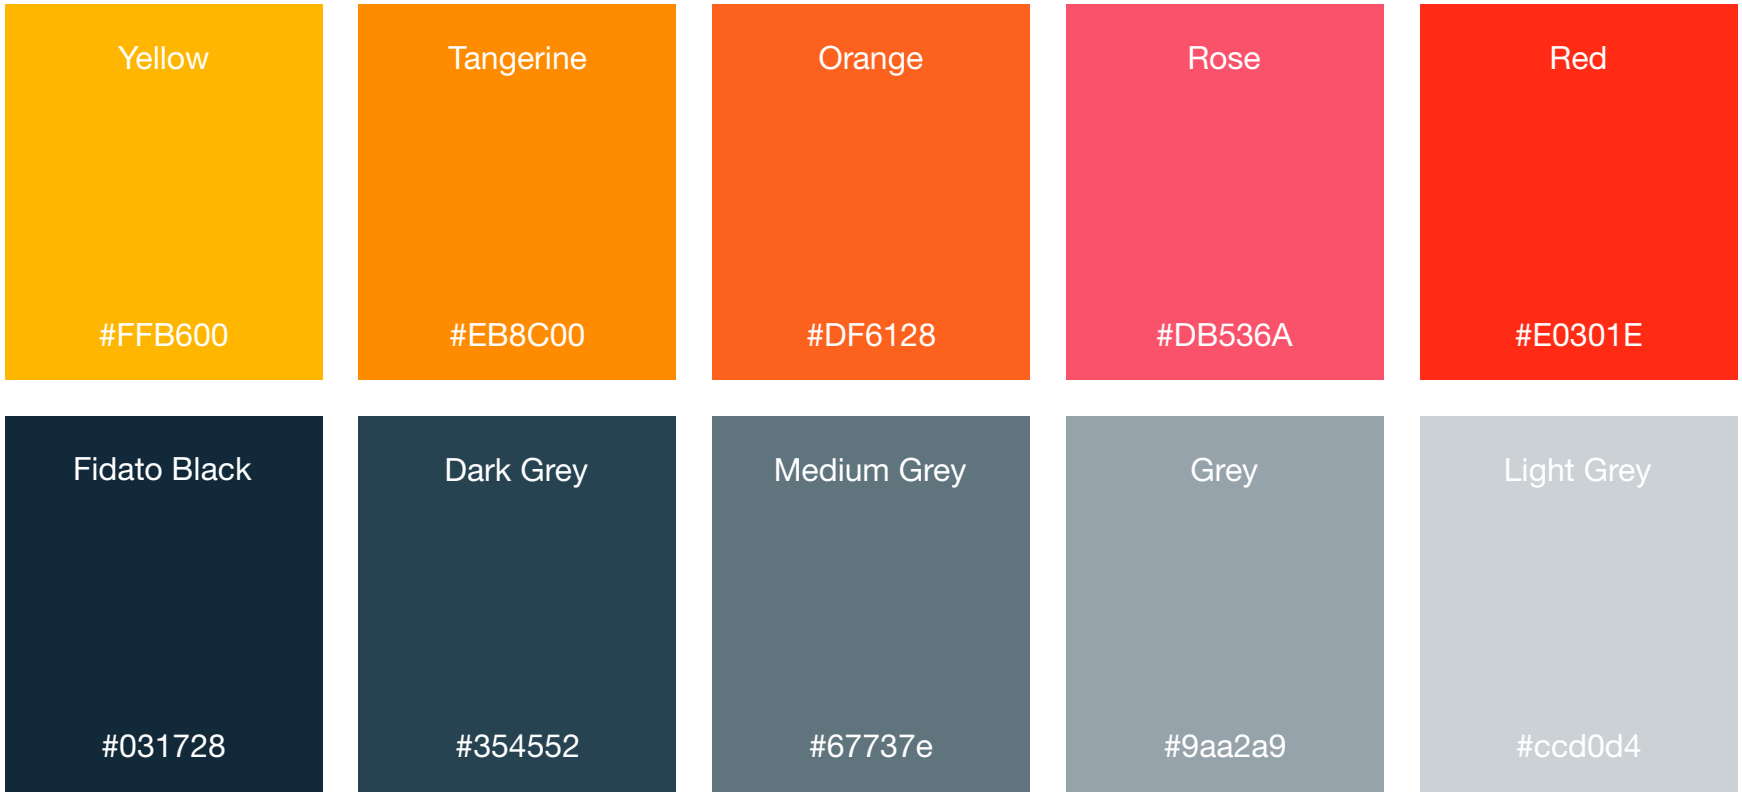

ITC Charter

Secondary

Helvetica Neue

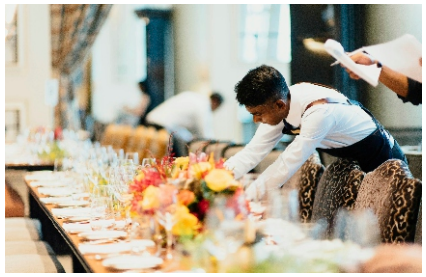

We choose from five warm colors, and a range of blacks and greys.

We have a strong selection of colors—each one stands out on its own or works beautifully when paired with others.

Our photography stays authentic.

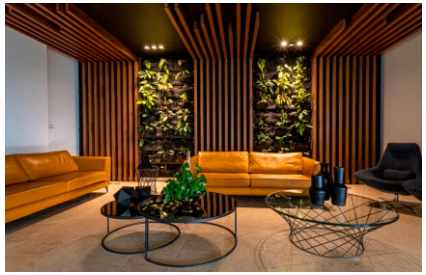

Our photography style is all about authenticity: naturally lit, set in real environments, and featuring people you can imagine working with, for, or alongside.

People: We capture genuine moments of engaged, welcoming people—whether they're working or enjoying their leisure time in our spaces.

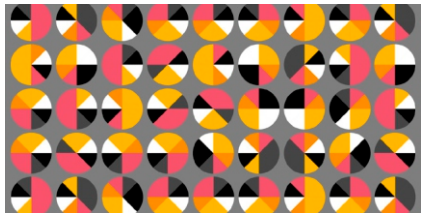

Objects: Our imagery highlights the thoughtful details of our spaces and amenities, focusing on the simple yet impactful elements that enhance the guest experience.

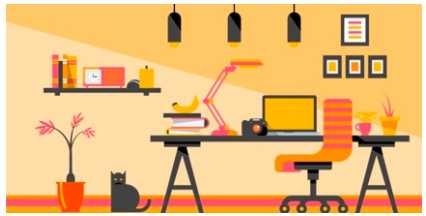

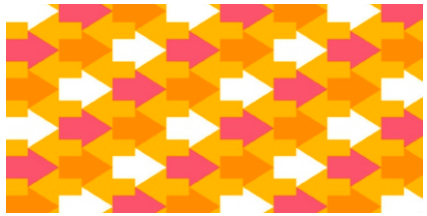

Environments: We showcase authentic environments, using natural perspectives to reflect the true essence of our hotels and the comfort they offer.

Our illustrations add boldness, vibrancy, and energy to our brand.

Our illustrations combine geometric and representational styles. Geometric illustrations bring boldness and vibrancy, while representational ones offer a more humanistic approach to conveying themes.

Our core graphic elements are both approachable and dynamic.

We use color blocking to segment imagery, illustrations, and text. Line work and block-stacking complement the design, drawing attention to key areas in images and emphasizing important phrases.

Colour blocking

Line work

Block-stacking

Design Secrets Unveiled: The Techniques Designers Use to Create Exceptional Designs

We asked Fidato designers for some valuable tips. Here’s what they had to say:

Focus, focus:
Always have a clear focus. Even if you're not the one designing, be able to express in words the strategic message you want to convey. It makes both designing and evaluating designs much easier when everyone aligns on the goal.

Clear, crisp, and clean:
In design, restraint equals confidence.

Embrace (white) space:
Use open space wisely. Give plenty of breathing room around the content you want your audience to focus on.

Be considerate with color:
We have a strong color palette, but it’s best to use them thoughtfully rather than overwhelming the design with every color at once.

Design around users:
Think about how people want to receive your message. They probably don’t want everything at once. Instead of bombarding them, consider how they will engage with your content. What do you want them to think or do when they see it? What's the most important takeaway?

When in doubt, take it out:
Just like editing your writing to remove unnecessary words, always review your design for anything extraneous. Cut back on excessive colors, reduce font sizes, simplify the mix of font styles, and perhaps remove a few icons.

Yes, we have the perfect look for that.

Our brand’s expression goes beyond just what you see on our homepage or the current slide deck you're viewing. We’re versatile, able to convey everything—from a tone of business professionalism to reflecting a dynamic, modern enterprise, and even showcasing a fun and vibrant workplace.

Our visual system ensures everything stays consistent and on point.

Imagine if every team, across every department, had to start from scratch every time they needed to design something new—creating new logos, colors, photography styles, fonts, and maybe even mascots? (It could get out of hand quickly.)

In just a few weeks, Fidato would appear disorganized, wasting time, money, and resources constantly reinventing the wheel—definitely not ideal.

This is our ‘Avoid Being That Person’ page.

What does it mean to go off the rails? It’s not just bending the rules—it’s breaking them completely. Our challenge to you? Learn to spot these common mistakes and avoid making them yourself.

Logo no-nos:
Don’t distort or alter the Fidato logo, and definitely don’t create new ones. (We see you trying to play with fancy typography—stick to our fonts and use sentence case.)

For font’s sake:
Don’t clutter your slides by using too many fonts or switching between two fonts without a clear reason.

Color commotion:
Don’t overwhelm with our color palette. Avoid using every color at once, or introducing new ones without purpose.

Photography fakery:
Avoid overly stylized or filtered images. Skip the obvious clichés—like binoculars for perspective or a tablet for digital—and focus on using simple, powerful imagery and language to tell your story.

Think you’re the next Picasso? Good news,you don’t need to be.

The Brand Team is here to help bring your creative ideas to life.

Contact us:

Sourav Singh
Brand Consultant
sourav@fidatohotels.com

Brand Manager

Head of Brand

www.fidatohotels.com

© 2025 Fidato. All rights reserved. Fidato refers to the Fidato network and/or one or more of its member hotels/firms, each of which is a separate legal entity. Please see www.fidatohotels.com/structure for further details.
This content is for general information purposes only, and should not be used as a substitute for consultation with professional advisors.

09022024-144410